

Brockway to Play Lead in "The Miser"

Featured as Harpagon, the miser, in the University Theatre Guild's production of Moliere's "The Miser," is Gordon Brockway, according to Dr. Harold Hayes, director. The play is scheduled to run from November 12-15 in the Main auditorium.

Other leads in the play include Don Sundquist as Cleante, the son; Alyce Claire Wellberg as Elsie, the daughter; Bernard Dinner as Valere, valet to Harpagon and beloved of Elsie; and Gladys Rappana as Marianne, beloved of Harpagon and Cleante.

Also cast in the play are Ronald LeMasurier in the role of Flash, valet to Cleante; Marilyn Abalon as Frosine, a go-between; Connie Hoyt as Martine, Harpagon's cook and housekeeper; Dennis LaRogue as Signor Anselme, father of Valere and Marianne; David Huntley as Jacques, a coachman; Delwin Cahoon, an officer, and James Fredstrom as Simon, a money broker.

The scenic assistant for "The Miser" is Jean Holmstrand, art major, who is now busy designing Baroque stage settings.

NAM Representative; Exiled Czech Head to Speak Here

The exiled President of Czechoslovakia and a representative of the National Association of Manufacturers will be speakers at UMD convocations in Main auditorium next week.

Stefan Osusky the exiled Czech head, will appear at 11 a. m. next Wednesday, according to Dr. Clarence B. Lindquist, UMD director of concerts and lectures. Dr. Neal Bowman, the NAM representative, will speak at 11 a. m. Tuesday on "Changes and Challenges."

The address will be open to the public without charge.

This summer the exiled President attended the Congress of International Jurists in West Berlin. Of his experience, he recently wrote Dr. Lindquist:

"From July 25 to Aug. 1 I attended the Congress of International Jurists in West Berlin in which the U. S. administration was interested. An investigating committee of Free Jurists of West Berlin spent 2½ years to gather 310 documents and present eye-witnesses to corroborate the facts.

"Jurists from 43 countries attended. For weeks preceding the Congress the Soviet Zone bitterly attacked the organizers of the Congress, and about three weeks before the Congress they kidnapped the Director Lesner of the Economic Section and took him to the Soviet Zone.

"Nothing was heard of him since, and while the Congress was in session, the Soviet Zone press issued warnings to those who attended, that to them may happen what happened to Lesner.

"When I arrived in West Berlin, an official of the Congress asked me to be careful in hiring a taxi near the Soviet zone. The nearest I got to Soviet Russia was at the Soviet Monument, where a Soviet soldier is permanently in service. I touched him and spoke to him. That was the nearest I got to the Bear's clutches."

President Osusky was chosen to organize a Council of Exile Jurists to gather material from the Iron Curtain countries regarding injustice as a system. He will call the first meeting of the group upon his return from his University of Minnesota appearances in Duluth and in other communities in this region.

Dr. Bowman was for 17 years professor of marketing in the school of business and public administration, Temple university. He has written three books on advertising and selling and has recently published a book on the principles and practices of public speaking.

Unexpected Enrollment Increase Is Announced

An increase of 103 students over 1951 fall quarter figures was officially reported today by Dr. John E. King, UMD provost, in his report on enrollment for the fall quarter of 1952.

UMD's fall quarter figures show 1,313 students, compared to 1,210 for the 1951 fall quarter, or an increase of 103. The total University enrollment, including UMD, is 18,806 compared to 18,682 last year, or a total increase of 124 students.

University officials explain the unexpected increase as "part of a national phenomenon." Instead of the 7 to 8 per cent drop predicted in college and university enrollments across the nation, the student totals now appear to be the same or slightly higher than last year's.

Festive Homecoming Week Offers Fun, Frolic Galore

While the Bulldogs plot with Coach Lloyd Peterson to DISGUST GUSTAVUS, General Homecoming Chairman Dick Wallin is laying plans for a bang-up week of Homecoming festivities.

Spirit on the UMD campus is due to hit an all-time high during this 1952 Homecoming week of Oct. 20-25, and will be climaxed by the UMD football game against the Gusties on Saturday night, Oct. 25.

The year's Homecoming festivities will be launched next Monday by the opening of the Queen campaign, the button sales kick-off and the Freshman beanie sale. Proceeds from the sale of booster buttons, to continue throughout the week, will help finance other Homecoming events.

A Pep convo is tentatively being planned for next Wednesday. The Queen candidates will be presented in a combination Queen convo and Pep Rally at 11:00 Thursday in the UMD auditorium.

Voting for candidates will be from noon to 4:00 Thursday by the activity card only. All campaign propaganda must come down by noon. No campaigning will be allowed in the halls during the voting hours.

Something new in the UMD books, an outdoor square dance, is scheduled for Thursday night. Hag, stag or drag, dancing will be from 8:00 until 11:00. In the event of a foul temper on the part of Jack Frost, the annual Homecoming square dance will be held in the gymnasium.

The 1952 Homecoming Queen will be crowned after a week of suspense at the Varsity Show in the auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday. The show also will feature UMD talent in a variety of comedy and musical acts.

The Freshman class will tackle its first project in the mammoth bonfire, sponsored each year by the newcomers. The bonfire will blaze in Chester Bowl immediately following the Varsity Show.

The gala Homecoming parade, promising to be the biggest and most colorful in UMD history, will get underway on 9th Avenue East and Superior Street in downtown Duluth at 1:30 Saturday, and will proceed to 6th Avenue West. Among those who will vie for parade honors will be both local and regional marching units, and floats sponsored by individual UMD organizations.

Highlight of the week's activities will be kick-off time—8:00 Saturday—at the Duluth Public School's stadium when the UMD Bulldogs will see how their power stacks up against

At this convo sponsors of each of the individual candidates will be given an equal time allotment for a final splurge of publicity prior to the opening of the Homecoming polls at noon Thursday. ## Homecoming Square Dance Slated for Thursday

The annual Homecoming Square Dance will be held this Thursday evening between 8:00 and 11:00 p. m. The dance is to be held on the UMD tennis courts, which will be decorated in the mood of the dance. Pumpkins, a cornfield and a hay loft setting will provide the background for the couples doing the polkas and schottiches to the music of Art Fahland and Co. The mode of dress will be jeans, plaid shirts and high-heeled boots, all to add to the barnyard air.

The dance will be STAG or DRAG with admission by activity card. Refreshments are to be sold at the dance. The chairman is Carol Ink, who states that in case of inclement weather, the dance will be held in the UMD gym.

Varsity Show Producers Seeking Dream Girl

Producers Herb Taylor and Don Sundquist are still searching for a triple-threat actress to play the dream girl in the Homecoming Varsity Show, "Coed in Paris," scheduled Friday, Oct. 24, in the Main auditorium. This production, highlighted by the crowning of the 1952 Homecoming Queen, is being sponsored by Gamma Theta Phi in cooperation with the Student Council.

Button Sales Announced

Bernie Dinner, chairman for the button committee for homecoming, has announced that the buttons will go on sale on Monday, October 20. Students may purchase the buttons at a booth in the entrance of Main or they may be approached by student salesmen on that day.

The buttons will have a clever picture on them showing just exactly how UMD will take the gust out of the Gusties.

Next Monday is the deadline for applications for Rhodes scholarships, oldest overseas award for American men students. Interested students are requested to contact the Office of Student Personnel Services for additional information.

The scholarships provide expenses for two years' study at Oxford university in England. One year extensions are possible for students with good records the first two years.

Thirty-two scholarships will be awarded to American men students this year, divided on a regional basis.

The awards are given to seniors, and occasionally to juniors, on the basis of scholarship, moral character, physical fitness and personality.

Mnemonic System Key to Knowledge

"The Mnemonic System!" echoed the freshman with a low whistle.

The senior looked into the distance of the afternoon coffee hour, flicked his cigarette ash into the remains of his 6-cent brew, then brought his eyes back sharply upon the reverent yearling.

"Yes!" he hissed darkly for the fifth time. "The Mnemonic System!"

There was empty laughter at the next table. The Queen of Washburn was making time with a halfback. Among the rest of the six-centers in this fun-swept emporium, thought the freshman, none else was so close to the Academic Nirvana.

"The Mnemonic System!" he breathed for the last time. It was the last time for sure, because at this point the senior stabbed his butt into the remains of his coffee.

"Look here!" said the senior. "If all you're gonna do is blab 'The Mnemonic System!' 'The Mnemonic System!' all afternoon you can go die."

The yearling's eyes were suddenly violent with terror. "I meant no harm!" he cringed, reaching out a staying hand. "This thing has just got me, that's all, Joshua! To think it got you through three years of this . . . this . . ." The freshman waved his hands futilely, clutching for the right words.

"This terrible maelstrom of scholastic fury!" he finally blurted, remembering what he had read in another freshman's English theme.

The senior was not mollified. "Do you want to buy it or not?" he said flatly.

Again the terror in the tender eyes, the troubled eyes that were learning a whole new world.

"I am only on the miscellaneous payroll!" the freshman cried softly. "Right now they have me removing pigeon signs from Main steps. With the cold weather coming on and all there's no telling when that windfall will end."

The senior put the hard look back. "I have others who want to buy it. They aren't giving me this hard luck story. Look, I want to hurry over to the li-

Attention Wilburs! Avoid the Mud; Join ROTC, and Get Your Degree

By HERB TAYLOR

Wilbur Gumsheew was a dope. He never failed to miss the boat. It wasn't that he didn't plan things—he planned long and carefully—but always in the wrong way.

For instance, Wilbur was crazy about a certain girl. He planned a wonderful date—movies, dancing, a drive through the park. And it was a perfect night for parking. But Wilbur had filled the gas tank to the brim—and he could find no excuse for parking.

When Wilbur started college, he planned that carefully too. He selected a major and minor right at the start—and stuck to it. He attended class regularly, and organized his studying so that even he could get good grades. He was happy in his ignorance, and looking forward to his degree.

But then, one day, Wilbur suddenly found himself clad in olive drab, crawling through some Mississippi mud with machine gun bullets whizzing over his head.

Wilbur had forgotten about the army.

Wilbur had forgotten about ROTC.

Wilbur hadn't even given in-college military training a chance. He had decided it was too much bother, and, like most of us Americans, he hated regimentation. But there are different kinds of regimentation, and some are better than others.

So Wilbur is a private in the infantry—and he doesn't have a degree.

Wilbur's friend Winston saw the big difference. He took advantage of his one big chance, as a first-quarter freshman, he enrolled in ROTC. Now Winston is a 2nd Lt. in the Air Force. No mud, no bullets and he has his degree.

The moral? Its pretty plain.

This year, freshmen have been given a special chance to avoid becoming Wilburs.

Its still not too late to enroll in the first quarter of ROTC—if you act immediately.

Remember, there's no obligation. You can drop out of ROTC anytime you choose, during the first quarter or in the years to come.

For further information, call or visit ROTC headquarters. He who hesitates is cannon fodder.

PERSONALITY PROFILE

By VERN SIMULA

Another senior that has established for himself a respectable record of accomplishments is Dick Wallin. This friendly fellow, besides being this year's senior class president, is also the general chairman of the Homecoming committee. During his freshman and sophomore years, he was elected vice president of his class. He has been a member of the student council for three years. Dick was one of the students that has helped the enrolling freshman at Orientation time. He has done this for three years. A member of the Barkers Club for four years, a prom committee member in his junior year, and a student assistant rounds out the major points on the record of Dick Wallin.

But besides being so busy at the activities and offices, Dick concentrates most of his energy studying for a Bachelor of Science degree in business education with a mathematics minor. Graduating with this degree, Dick hopes to begin teaching commercial subjects and mathematics, or possibly, he contemplates the chance of teaching and also studying for his graduate work in education administration. Somewhere along the line in these plans, Dick has made the allowance for military service.

Symphony Tickets

Students who are interested in obtaining tickets for tonight's Duluth Symphony concert may obtain them from the Office of Student Personnel Services, Room 215. A total of 150 tickets are available. The activity card must be presented when the tickets are obtained.

Students who were unable to receive tickets for the first concert may apply for a ticket on Wed., or Thurs., during the week of the second and subsequent concerts. If the 150 tickets are not claimed, students who attended the previous concert may get a ticket on Friday.

An interesting note about Dick is his travels. During his high school days, his travels were quite limited. But after starting college, he says he has managed to take a trip during every summer vacation, even though it may have been by hook or crook. During the summer between his freshman and sophomore years, Dick traveled to Colorado. The next summer he went to see what New York was like. This past summer, he made his way to southern California. As a result of these meanderings, he has looked the country over and has come to the conclusion that he might like to teach in southern California.

A graduate of Duluth Central in 1949, in his senior year he was voted as the one who contributed most to his school. During his stay at UMD, we feel that here too, Dick Wallin has contributed much.

Debate Organizational Meet Scheduled Monday

"Resolved: That the Congress should adopt a Fair Employment Practices law."

That is the question which debate teams throughout the United States will discuss during their tournaments, and this includes UMD as well.

According to Dr. Mason Hicks, coach of the UMD debate team, an organizational meeting will be held next Monday at 3:30 p. m.

Last year's squad was severely hit by graduation, losing Leonard Wheat, Jerry Sonosky and John Brust who will graduate at the end of this quarter.

Returning members of the debate squad include Gerald Christianson, Fred Noreen, Nancy Rasche, Grant Merritt of Duluth and Vernon Simula Cloquet.

member that Longfellow wrote 'Hiawatha.' Well, all you have to do is think of something long and fellow. Let's take long first. What do you think of when you think of long?"

"Lectures," said the freshman quickly.

The senior was regaining his humor. "That's good," he chuckled coldly. "All right, make it lectures. Now how about fellow?"

The freshman pondered a moment. "Mellow . . . Because I remember a song in third grade that had something about a mellow fellow."

The senior looked once again into the distance of the afternoon coffee hour. "Well, I guess that will do," he said finally. Now what do you think of when you think of Hiawatha?"

"Longfellow," said the freshman.

The Queen of Washburn was in a rage of laughter over what the halfback had just said. He had repeated one of the things the coach has said after the St. John's game. The cafeteria was slowly making like the stands at that of the Gusties of St. Peter, Minn.

Following the game, the Homecoming Dance will take place at the National Guard armory. Dancing will be from 10 to 1.

Just how successful the 1952 Homecoming season will be as a whole depends not only on the power of the UMD football squad, but also on the support which the student body puts behind the team.

It's up to every freshman, sophomore, junior, senior and faculty member to help knock the wind out of the Gusties. It's up to UMD to DIS-GUST GUSTAVUS.

SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

By DICK SIPOLA

"When it rains it pours", and to quote another oft repeated phrase, "hand us our crying towels."

All loyal Bulldog fans are sadly contemplating the series of bitter blows dealt coach Peterson's gridders within the past two weeks. After trouncing Macalester quite soundly our hopes for a successful season were heightened, even though that decisive victory cost the team the services of end Owen Beatty, who suffered a broken collar bone. This loss was coupled with the revelation that Uncle Sam had taken tackle Bruce Paulson into his fold. These tough breaks were discouraging enough, but to top them off All-Conference center Phil LeTourneau was declared ineligible in the day prior to the Michigan Tech game.

The 35 to 7 score that decided the outcome of the game with the Huskies, was too lopsided for anyone to state that the absence of LeTourneau was the difference between defeat and victory. But a player of Phil's caliber has to be missed, especially since he anchored a potent defensive eleven. We believe that if LeTourneau had played the Huskies would have found it harder going and the score would have been lower.

With the Hamline and Gustavus games looming on the horizon Peterson could really use LeTourneau, Paulson and Beatty. We don't want to develop an "all is lost" attitude but must admit our chances for victory in these two crucial MIAC games has been dimmed considerably. A football game isn't won before it's played or before the final gun as was so aptly demonstrated by the Ohio State upset victory over Wisconsin and Minnesota's squeaky, one point, last minute victory over North-

Branchmen Tackle Hamline Tomorrow

By BUDDY LAMPPA

A powerful Piper eleven, anxious to revenge last year's 21-6 beating, will be the guests of the winless UMD Bulldogs tomorrow night at Public Schools stadium.

Coach Lyle Koch's squad has made a good showing so far this season, losing only one game while racking up three wins, two of them by very impressive margins.

Sparked by the playing of freshman end Dick Donline, who caught three touchdown passes, and fullbacks Don Larson and Jack Curtiss, Hamline ran and passed their way to a 39-0 victory over St. Mary's in their latest outing.

Although fielding a veteran team, the Piper's backfield has improved considerably with the addition of the "Twin Dynamos", Don and Dale Rasmussen, All-State high school stars from Austin high school.

The Piper forward wall has looked tremendous, defensively, in the last two games, not allowing a single touchdown to be scored against them.

The Bulldogs, still smarting from last week's 35-7 defeat by Michigan Tech, will be without the services of captain and center Phil LeTourneau who was sidelined because of ineligibility. The loss of LeTourneau has greatly weakened the UMD defensive line.

In games played to date, the Branchmen have found it rugged going, dropping three and tying one. One of the losses was a forfeit to Macalester even though the Bulldogs won, 26-0. However, Coach Lloyd Peterson's eleven has looked good at times, especially on defense.

The Hamline encounter will be followed by next week's Homecoming game against the defending MIAC champions, Gustavus Adolphus.

western last Saturday. It hurts to forfeit a game like the Macalester trouncing but it's too late to do anything about it now. We can only hope that the fickle finger of fate doesn't point our way with more bad breaks for the remainder of the season.

Without a legal win to back them up the Bulldog squad will have to develop a spirited attitude and play heads-up ball to give the Pipers and Gusties a good battle. We're sure the coaching staff will have them ready for the game so drop out to Public School's Stadium Saturday night and lend your moral support to what we hope is a winning cause. Incidentally, if you yell at the game and someone turns around to give you a haughty look of disgust, pay no heed. Some people when making the transition from high school to college develop a decided air of sophistication. Believe me, it is decided.

Congratulations Gophers

With an exciting, unexpected, last minute victory over Northwestern last Saturday to go on, maybe the Gophers will find themselves and make a creditable showing for the remainder of the season. Switching the signal calling to experienced halfback Paul Giel seems to have been a wise move. It was a team victory and it looks as though both Giel and Quarterback Don Swanson thrive on this system as both played marvelous games. We see the Gophers winning over Iowa and Nebraska and giving several others of their remaining opponents a very trying time. We hope this isn't just wishful thinking.

Bulldogs Lose LeTourneau

The midnight hour struck upon the Cinderella team of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic conference last Friday—and the Bulldogs to a man, as well as their rooters, are hoping there is a glass slipper somewhere around to bring their 1952 story to a happy ending.

It happened when Bill Haman, St. Paul, executive secretary of the MIAC, ruled that Captain Phil LeTourneau, the Bulldogs' ace center, linebacker and spirited leader was ineligible for 1952 play.

An immediate result was that the Macalester win of the previous week was reversed on a forfeit, and UMD had two defeats on its record in MIAC play against no victories.

The next day at Houghton, Mich., the LeTourneau-less Bulldogs ran into a nightmare peopled with such names as U. Jim Anderson, a 1951 UMD tackle standout, Gene Taglienti, a tricky footed halfback, and Ray Puro, a hard-running Canadian who has taken to American football like Americans to Canuck currency.

Michigan Tech piled up 35 points to the Bulldogs' 7—the latter scored in the early minutes as the Bulldogs appeared

Dejected Bulldogs Trampled By Huskies at Houghton, 35-7

UMD's stunned Bulldogs, trying to recover from the loss of Captain Phil LeTourneau and the forfeit to Macalester, were no match for a vicious Michigan Tech eleven, dropping a 35-7 decision last Saturday on the latter's field.

A sustained air-borne attack, starting from the Bulldog 24-yard marker, led to the Bulldog's lone score. Fullback Ken Johnson legged the pigskin over the double-stripe on a 33-yard pass play engineered by quarterback Howie Tucker. Tucker had previously completed an eight yard aerial to end Ron Behning and a 38-yard strike to halfback Joe Boffa to set up Johnson's touchdown.

The Huskies roared back with a touchdown immediately after the ensuing kick-off tallying the six-pointer on a plunge by quarterback Bob Wollney. Tackle Joe Gemignani place kicked his first of five extra points to knot the score at 7-7.

Tech boosted its advantage to 21-7 at half-time, notching scores on an off-tackle slant by halfback Gene Taglienti and a line plunge by Ray Puro.

Fullback Paul Viton climaxed a 41-yard march in the third chapter, barreling over from the three yard line for Tech's fourth touchdown. Halfback Len Byers capped the scoring in the final canto on a short plunge. U. Jim Anderson, a tackle who starred for the Bulldogs last year, set up the Huskies' last touchdown when he recovered a fumble on the Bulldog 17-yard stripe.

The Bulldog ground attack, which had functioned smoothly against Macalester, was completely thwarted by a stubborn Tech forward wall. UMD ball carriers netted only 80 yards on running plays.

In other departments, Tucker completed six passes for a gain of 185 yards while the Bulldogs rolled up 11 first downs as compared to 18 garnered by Michigan Tech. The Huskies gained 346 yards, running and passing, to the Bulldog's 265.

UMD Pucksters to Meet Gophers in December

UMD hockey has hit a new high this year, having scheduled the University of Minnesota's Golden Gopher sextet on Dec. 13 at the Duluth Curling Club, according to an announcement by Athletic Director Lew Rickert.

The Bulldog squad, hampered by inadequate practice facilities, will probably assume the role of underdogs in this contest. Open rinks in the vicinity of the school will be used for practice sessions.

WAA ACTIVITIES

The members of the Women's Athletic Association will brave the chilly October weather, Saturday, Oct. 18, as they venture out on a 6:00 a. m. early morning breakfast hike and cook-out. They plan to meet at 6:00 a. m. on Lake Avenue and Superior Street where cars will be available for transportation to Park Point.

Activities at Park Point include a hike along the shore line and then an early morning breakfast consisting of fried bacon and eggs, toast and coffee.

The regular activity period for WAA members is from 4:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. every Tuesday.

MEET THE STARS

By JIM MATTESON

RON CASADONT

Native born son of Nickerson, Minnesota and a product of Askov High school and Coach Dayton Barkley, Cass, as we all know him at UMD didn't participate to any great extent in football at Askov, but centered his attention on basketball in which he won four letters and held down the position of guard.

(Ron's football career really started while he was enrolling as a freshman . . . there was the usual long line at the registration table and Cass, being in a hurry, became more than eager to get over to Washburn to meet the other fresh(women), and started pushing. Well, one thing led to another and the first thing you know one of the men in the line being affiliated with the team, Glen Johnson by name, suggested that this young hardy join him at Ordean to try out for the team.)

Ron then tried out for the freshman squad in 1949 under Lew Rickert, and we might point out that Cass, to make the frosh squad, had to beat out three other fellows who had previous experience!

Ron graduated to the varsity squad as a member of the first string in 1951 and gives the St. Thomas game of that year the nod as his biggest sports thrill.

"There we were", said Cass, "the underdogs from the outset of the game, but it sure made me feel good when I saw the team go on to trip the Tommies." Cass added that the biggest disappointment was the loss to Gustavus later last fall.

We know that the strangest thing in Cass' career occurred only last Saturday on the turf at Michigan Tech, where he was on the opposite side of the fence for the first time from U. Jim Anderson, his ex-teammate and member of the Lillegard, Anderson, Casadont Corporation. (Cass did a commendable job of bottling up the "fatman" on those trap plays.)

Ron is now a senior at UMD, is majoring in physical education and minoring in social studies, and his long range plans call for a coaching career in some high school. Cass works in the off season on the railroad and this will go to explain partially the stamina that is always Cass on the football field.

As a parting note we might say that the solitude at Ordean on the bus to and from practice sessions is caused by the absence of the other half—Glen Johnson. Together, Glen and Cass were known as the "watch charm" guards of '51.

Best of luck to you, Ron, in your plans for a coaching career. We know that as UMD "Builds for the Future", we may hope that a few of your products will be playing for the Bulldogs come '70.

sparked for a "Win This One for Phil" romp.

It is a moot question whether the Michigan Tech reversal was the direct result—in total score, at least—of LeTourneau's departure from the UMD ranks. But there is no doubting that LeTourneau has piled up a phenomenal number of opponents' plays in his long grid career, and his uncanny play-guessing ability as well as his terrific power in the line would have been a big factor in the Bulldogs' remaining schedule.

LeTourneau

The exact ruling on which LeTourneau was declared ineligible was that he had played one year at Georgetown university before returning to Duluth to play with Duluth Junior College. He was thus in his fifth year of play this fall.

It was no secret in these parts that Phil was a former Georgetown player. A lot of newspaper and football brochure publicity had gone out on Phil several weeks before the ineligibility decision was made, and it all contained his playing record. The Georgetown experience did not show on his DJC transcript, however.

UMD Athletic Director Lew Rickert summed the story up this way Monday:

"The whole thing came about through an unusual set of circumstances that nobody could foresee. The MIAC conference officials and ourselves saw clearly how the misunderstanding occurred. Nobody blamed anybody else for what happened—it was just one of those things. We will just have to accept the misfortune."

Dr. King Announces Enrollment Increases; 1 200 Mark Passed

Non-veteran enrollment for the fall quarter at the University of Minnesota, Duluth branch, is approaching the highest total in UMD history.

Figures released recently by Dr. John E. King, provost, showed total enrollment at 1,316—100 more than the 1951 fall quarter total. With final registrations next week, the percentage increase may be 15 per cent over 1951 fall quarter figures.

Non-veteran enrollment, considered the gauge of normal operation, was passing the 1,200 mark. With additional enrollments in two graduate courses—one in education and one in history—convening for the first time today, the high non-veteran mark of 1,233 in 1950-51 may be passed.

Provost King said arrangements were made to accommodate late-registering students during orientation.

Richard L. Griggs, Duluth member of the University of Minn. board of regents, expressed enthusiastic reaction to the UMD totals.

"We are confident," he said, "that the UMD enrollment will surpass the 1951 fall quarter total considerably when all registrations are in. In spite of the expected downward trend of college enrollments, throughout the Midwest, UMD is truly a growing institution.

"It is my hope that the support and interest shown by students and parents in this region will be reflected in the actions of the 1953 state legislature which will soon begin preliminary consideration of the Regent's requests for buildings on the Duluth campus.
